Crux Of Red China And Soviet Row NATO Laid Bare In New Peking Onslaught Studies Tactics

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia and atomic bomb and technical data. Red China today laid bare the crux of their feud over the nuclear test ban treaty — charged that the Soviet Union had refused to share its atomic secrets with its ally.

Peking finally exposed the festering rift in the national agreement as far back as June 1959, when the Soviet Union refused to share its atomic secrets with its ally. The Soviet Communists party organ Pravda, in revealing an adaptation of the Chinese book, today published a translation of Moscow's refusal to share its atomic secrets with its ally.

The Pravda attack was a reprint of an anti-Chinese document published in Vienna by the Moscow-sponsored World Peace Council.

It accused the Chinese of having broken with the rest of the world's "fighters for peace" over the partial nuclear test ban.

The target date arose from the fact that state Secretary Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home are scheduled to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko in New York about the time of the United Nations General Assembly opening Sept. 18.

At the United Nations, the United States is reported to have proposed to the Soviet Union that they resume talks soon on laws to apply to the exploration of space.

Two sets of problems are likely to figure in the next round of East-West cold war talks. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has called for an East-West non-aggression pact. President Kennedy and Rusk have countered this with proposals that the Soviet Union should agree to measures for reducing the possibility of conflict over Berlin and for limiting the dangers of surprise attack.

Their only worry is to justify the policy of the Chinese government which is doing everything it can to take part in the nuclear arms race," it charged.

The article rejected Chinese claims that Russia and the United States were seeking to maintain a monopoly of nuclear weapons.

The Communist peace movement, it said, "absolutely rejects the very idea that peace should be strengthened . . . by increasing the number of countries possessing nuclear weapons."

Warden David Heritage said Cohen suffered a compound depressed fracture when a former patient attacked him Wednesday in the radio and television shop where Cohen works as a clerk.

He presumed the majority of the 1,200 union representatives at the rally were NDP sympathizers.

"I was asked to be there to outline the NDP policy on nuclear weapons, civil rights and the Columbia River treaty, which I did."

Attendance at May Day rallies was completely appropriate because the NDP was affiliated with the CLC.

Mr. Cox was not available for comment Wednesday night.

Mr. Cox also attended the May 1 rally.

Asked for comment, Mr. Hertridge said the party showed "narrow-mindedness." He saw nothing detrimental to the NDP in his appearance at the meeting.

He said he was invited by officers of several responsible unions affiliated with the Vancouver Labor Council or the B.C. Federation of Labor, both Canadian Labor Council affiliates.

Syncom 11 On Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space agency scientists said today they have placed the Syncom II satellite on station high over Brazil.

The world's first virtually synchronous satellite, Syncom II was placed in position to enable 24-hour transatlantic communication between Lakehurst, N.J., and Lagos, Nigeria.

Commands were radioed to the satellite in the early morning hours to touch off tiny jets of nitrogen gas and speed Syncom II's orbit to make it nearly synchronous with the earth's rotation.

This was the last in a series of maneuvers to place Syncom II along the 5th degree of longitude. On launching from Cape Canaveral Fla. July 26 the satellite had gone into a lower than planned orbit and its speed carried it eastward in relation to the earth's rotation.

Warhead Accord Expected Friday

Weapons To Be Controlled Under "Two-Key" System

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson hopes Canadian heads will be used for the H-bomb approval will be given Friday to an agreement providing nuclear warheads for Canadian forces at home and in western Europe.

The technical details will take a few weeks to complete.

Mr. Pearson and his cabinet discussed the agreement to obtain U.S. warheads at two recent sessions Wednesday, and said afterwards he hopes the agreement will be fully approved Friday.

It will provide for the stationing of U.S. nuclear warheads on Canadian military bases in Canada, France and West Germany under a "two key" system.

The U.S. will retain custody and control except for operational purposes. Then the U.S. and Canada would exercise joint control over their use.

This is the same system as prevails under American agreements with the United Kingdom and with other NATO countries.

Mr. Pearson said that working out the agreement with Canada was complicated by the fact that in addition to Canadian NATO forces in Europe, it will apply to Canadian forces at home under the North American Air Defence Command.

These are the Bomarc-B missile bases at La Macaza, Que., and North Bay, Ont., and five HCAF stations where Voodoo jet interceptors are based.

The five HCAF Voodoo stations are at Chatham, N.B., Baguville, Que., Ottawa, North Bay and Comox, B.C.

Mr. Pearson said the formal agreement will not be made public in the same way that U.S. agreements with other NATO countries are secret. However, within the bounds of national security the terms of the agreement will be described in a joint release from Ottawa and Washington.

BEN BELLA

Crisis Faces Ben Bella

ALGERS (AP) — Premier Ahmed Ben Bella today faced threats of resignation by several ministers in his troubled government.

The threats apparently were prompted by the resignation of veteran politician Ferhat Abbas as head of the National Assembly.

An 11-page document citing the reasons for Abbas' action raised tension in already uneasy Algerian political circles.

It was an open and bitter attack on Ben Bella by a man who helped him rise to power last fall.

Informed sources said that among cabinet members planning to leave were Finance Minister Ahmed Francis, Reconstruction Minister Ahmed Boumedjel and Justice Minister Amar Bentouni, all men with long-time revolutionary records and prestige.

The country's problems—continued lack of money, unemployment and chaotic administration—have been among the main causes of growing dissatisfaction.

Those opposing Ben Bella have been citing the premier's tendency toward one-man rule, his alleged disregard for Parliament and rule by a limited number of his followers.

In addition to being premier, Ben Bella is foreign minister and the titular head of the National Liberation Front, the only legal party.

Leaders of the National Liberation Front (FLN) denounced Abbas today for breaking with Ben Bella.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson C. Drummond, 34-year-old U.S. Navy yeoman, was sentenced to life imprisonment today as a Soviet spy.

Drummond, a 17-year navy veteran from Baltimore who was arrested with secret documents in company of two Soviet officials, was convicted July 19 of conspiring to commit espionage. Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy passed sentence.

A stockily built Negro, Drummond appeared shocked as he heard the sentence. He gripped the edge of the table against which he stood.

Judge Murphy told Drummond who could have received the death sentence: "You have sold the security and the safety of your country for $24,000."

Drummond's wife, Lucille, gasped as the judge pronounced sentence.

Nun Becomes Fourth Suicide In Viet Nam's Fire Suicides

SAIGON (AP) — A middle-aged Buddhist nun burned herself to death today in a South Viet Nam coastal village to further the Buddhist campaign against President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

The nun, Dieu Hien, was the fourth Buddhist to commit suicide by fire.

The Buddhists say they are being discriminated against by the government. Diem is a Roman Catholic.

In Hue, capital of central Viet Nam, government troops with fixed bayonets broke up a demonstration by several hundred Buddhist students demanding the body of a novice monk who immolated himself Tuesday.

Scores of students were arrested, and some were believed wounded.

The monk committed suicide at a pagoda outside Hue. Monks were carrying the body into the city for a public burial Wednesday when troops seized it and turned it over to an uncle of the monk for private burial.

At least 25 members of the funeral entourage were wounded, some seriously, when the troops beat them with their steel helmets.

Students gathered several hundred students gathered today outside the province chief's house in the centre of the city. They broke into loud cries demanding delivery of the body to Hue's main Buddhist pagoda.

Squads of Vietnamese troops moved slowly down the street with fixed bayonets at the ready. They plunged into the crowd of students.

Within minutes, the students were scattered. Those arrested were hauled away in army trucks.

Nun Dieu Hien apparently lived in a pagoda at the port of Nha Trang, these sources said. She took a bus for the 15-mile ride north to Ninh Hoa at 8:30 a.m. On arrival she doused herself with gasoline and burned herself.

Cherry Crop Cut By June Rainfall

Rainfall in June drastically reduced Kelowna's cherry crop, said a release from B.C. Tree Fruits today.

There was a total of 136,212 crates of cherry crop, and the amount shipped this year, due to the excessive rainfall, said the release.

In 1962 the total cherry crop was 380,726. This year it was cut to 244,514.

Released figures indicate the both size of the cherry crop and the amount shipped to fresh markets and canners.

"In June the cherry crop was estimated at 332,000 crates. Many thought that figure was too low and the crop would go to 550,000 at least, possibly 600,000," the bulletin said.

"Actual shipments compared with 1962 figures, indicate the extent to which rain reduced the crop," it said.

All figures are in terms of 20.5 pound crates. The canner figures do not include jam.

Shipments to the fresh markets in Western Canada totalled 132,419, compared to 193,134 in 1962. In Eastern Canada, shipments totalled 47,040, compared to 89,387 last year.

The United States received 8,623 in comparison to 41,155 in 1962. The United Kingdom, which was sent 15,339 last year, was not shipped cherries this year. Other off-shore fresh markets were not shipped cherries this year, and last year totalled 50 crates.

Books, Guidance Short At Library - Professor

There are not enough books for the community and not enough guidance for the public at the Okanagan Regional Library.

This was the opinion of Miss Rose Vainstein, associate professor of the school of librarians, UBC, in Kelowna today on part of a province-wide survey of libraries for the B.C. Government.

Miss Vainstein said: "For the amount of money available in Kelowna, excellent service is being given. But not enough money is being spent to give the kind of service the Okanagan deserves."

"There are not enough books for the community and not enough guidance for the public who frequents the library," she said.

"It is just as important to provide good reading matter for adults as for students," she said. "There is a need for basic education, but there is a longer time spell after a person leaves school when he must make intelligent decisions. If there is no additional education, the period in school is wasted. You cannot have a good library service unless taxpayers are willing to pay for it."

REPORT DUE

"I will hand in a report at the end of the year, which will be referred to the public early in 1964. It will be divided into two parts: first, what I find in the way of public library service in the province, and second, my suggestions and recommendations, to be based on a province-wide scale, dealing with all libraries as a whole and not touching any individually."

SERVICE NETWORK

"This, we hope, will provide a network of library service available to all B.C. residents regardless of area, age, or walks of life," Miss Vainstein said.

Miss Vainstein, in library work for 21 years, has served in municipal libraries in Brookline, county libraries in Ohio and California, army libraries overseas, in Hawaii and Japan and a year in England on Fellowship studying the British system.

The survey is being made at the request of the public library commission, which has been conducting surveys for the past six years. This is the first time someone not on the commission has been asked to conduct the survey," said Miss Vainstein.

Born in Edmonton, Alta., and educated in the States where she gained her library experience, Miss Vainstein came to B.C. two years ago to join the UBC staff.

More Beach Access Needed In District

MINISTER VISITS

Federal Minister of Agriculture, Harry Hays, will visit Kelowna today. Minister Hays, Mayor of Calgary since 1959, has a full itinerary planned for Friday. At 9 a.m. he will meet vegetable officials at Okanagan Federated Shoppers' Association, in the office of secretary manager L. H. Stephens. He will then tour the Sun-Hype Plant, Kelowna Growers Exchange, and B.C. Tree Fruits.

Mr. Hays will lunch with B.C. Fruit Growers Association officials. During his career, Mr. Hays has been president of the Canadian swine breeders' Association, the Southern Egg and Poultry Association, and the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Board. He became Federal Minister of Agriculture in April.

There is a great need for more beach facilities in Kelowna and the district. Visiting and Convention Committee will be asked to study the problem of city beach change today.

"There are hundreds of public beaches in and around Kelowna but getting access to them is difficult. Most of these beaches are not being used as they should be. They are being used as parking lots for private homes."

"The only way to open these areas that are encroached upon is to get an official body to take some action."

As a result of the report a motion was passed saving public streets and right-of-ways to public beaches should be adequately opened and suitably marked.

The matter will be looked into by the service committee.

The Kelowna Parks and Recreation officials will be approached by the committee with the suggestion of city beach change today.

"The number of the change beaches are in terrible condition and especially in the early morning I would hate to think of a tourist going into one of these parks to change," said A. M. Duncan.

Members heard a letter from G. D. Herbert, asking who owned the lakefront property along the Turner lots. He said that he and five of his neighbors had gone to considerable time and expense landscaping the area.

Chairman John Dyck said, "This is out of our jurisdiction." The letter should be referred to the city, the meeting decided.

Committee Backs Chamber Support Proposed Shuswap Canal

The Visitor and Convention Committee backed a proposal by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce concerning the Shuswap Canal at Wednesday night's meeting.

The motion was that the Kelowna chamber will back the Okanagan Mainline District Chamber of Commerce's support of the Shuswap canal. If there is something started soon on a feasibility report on the canal.

In his report on the canal to the group, Joe Keenan said, "It would be a tremendous thing if we could get this canal from Enderby to Penikese."

"The canal will be 50 feet wide, eight to ten feet deep and 17 miles long."

"Purpose of the canal will be to give co-ordinated irrigation and lateral lines to water 114,000 acres, almost three times as much as the 40,000 acres which are now being irrigated. In addition, it will supply a badly needed constant water supply to Okanagan Lake," Mr. Keenan said.

WATER-ROUTE

"For the tourists, it will supply at water-route from Penikese to Enderby."

"A survey done by a government engineer, Mr. Hamlin in December 1962, cost $4,100. Today that same survey is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000."

"There has been a suggestion that the survey be done as a Centennial project for 1967," he said.

EIGHT FOOT DAM

"The canal will start one mile east of Enderby at the Shuswap river. At this point, an eight foot dam will be built to carry the water into Enderby and Armstrong. From there it will flow into Otter Lake and on to the Okanagan Lake."

Tourists Accuse Motels Of Shoddy Treatment

Wednesday night's meeting of the Visitor and Convention Committee in the chamber of commerce board room heard two reports concerning Kelowna motels, that A. M. Duncan described as, "Just damnable, it's ruining everything we're trying to do."

Two women from Banff and their five children were indirectly turned away from a motel when the owner demanded a week's payment. The women contended that they had put down the necessary deposit and said they were going to stay. The operator said, "That's fine but the unit won't be available in the morning." The women subsequently left the motel.

In a second case, a touring couple were refused lodging in a Kelowna motel. The man said after he and his wife were turned down, they waited and a four-room arrived and were given a room for the night.

Shortly afterward, the same couple met another couple from their hometown and they returned to the motel and were given accommodation.

"In the latter case, it was all done because the operator would get a couple of dollars more by giving the unit to a foursome rather than a couple," Mr. Duncan said.

Post Office Trims Down Request To Advertise City

A letter from Kelowna postmaster W. G. Burgess was read at Wednesday's meeting of the Visitor and Convention Committee. The letter concerned the use of a post office cancellation die to be used on all out-going mail from the Kelowna post office.

The committee had originally requested a die saying "Kelowna - Four Season Playground" in his letter, Mr. Burgess said it was not the policy of the postal department to advertise any city, district, or area for commercial purposes.

The letter went on to say that a die saying "Kelowna-Your Convention City" could be used. However, the die could only be used for one month of the year. The cost would be $11.27. The letter was filed.

A stamp machine firm said in a letter to the committee that they could make a plate adver-ting Kelowna.

The plate would be similar to those used by Community Chest and the Red Cross. This plate could also be used by businesses in the city which use stamp machines.

"I think our first job is to educate the people of Kelowna and something like this would be great," said co-ordinator Bob Gordon.

Deaf Children's School Meet Tonight At 8:30

The meeting for the formation of a Society for Children with a hearing handicap will be held in the South Okanagan Health Unit annex on Queensway tonight at 8:30. Miss D. Williams will be speaking on the possibility of setting up a school for deaf children in the Okanagan.

VISITORS AND CONVENTION COMMITTEE BRIEFS

The Okanagan Valley Tourist Association was given a large amount of credit in aiding Kelowna businessmen in business increases ranging from 20 to 500 per cent over last July. The comment came up at the Visitors and Convention committee meeting Wednesday night, after the committee decided to approach Regatta officials about the possibility of leaving the flags and bunting up after the Regatta. "Our visitor industry is a 12-month thing," Homer Robinson said.

of the special day is to do something in Kelowna that will educate the people on what we have in Kelowna.

A business man who operates a pottery studio outside Kelowna sent a letter to the committee asking that they attempt to get a permit for him to erect directional signs. He said his signs had been taken down by the Highway Department. "If we start getting into these things, we're sticking our necks out a mile," A. M. Duncan said.

A B.C. Government tour may be sponsored by the committee. "There is going to have to be some very serious work done if we are going to sponsor this by ourselves," Dr. John Bennett said.

A letter will be sent to Victoria asking authority be given to Kelowna highways department head A. L. Freebairn to release traffic count figures on the bridge.

The Kelowna Knights of Columbus have agreed to help in the rejuvenation of the Pandosy mission. "They have agreed wholeheartedly with the idea. They feel its condition is neglected and they are willing to meet with someone from the committee anytime and go out to look the mission over and discuss the idea," R. K. Gordon said.

Survey forms have been distributed to Kelowna stores for completion by visitors. Questions on the form are: In what state or province do you have permanent residence; what type of accommodation did you use while staying in Kelowna; how many persons were in your party; what influenced you most in planning your holiday; what activity or entertainment did you not find in Kelowna that you were looking for and what did you enjoy most about your stay in Kelowna?

The committee passed a motion requesting that Kelowna be allowed to sponsor a fly-in of the B.C. Aviation Council in blossom time, 1964. The Council met Wednesday night in Kelowna.

A "Well Kelowna Day" is being planned for Kelowna. The idea

Cloudy Skies With Showers

The remainder of today and Friday will be sunny with cloudy periods in Kelowna and district. There is also a possibility of a few showers or thunderstorms during the evening both days.

The weather synopsis from Vancouver said a large upper-level disturbance on the north coast of B.C. is drifting slowly eastward. As a result, weather conditions over the province will show little change.

Southern sections will be mostly sunny with only the odd shower in the interior and on the more exposed parts of the coast.

Northern areas will have considerably more cloud and shower activity will be more widespread, particularly in the interior.

Temperatures will remain near seasonal averages.

In Kelowna Wednesday it was 82 and 53. For the same date last year, it was 79 and 50.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

After the closing ballet, Tuesday night, at the Banff School Festival Ballet performance, directors Gweneth Lloyd and Betty Farrally were given an ovation by the cast and audience.

It couldn't have happened to two nicer people and one felt that these two fine dancing teachers have at last come home.

Tuesday night was an artistic triumph for Miss Lloyd and Mrs. Farrally in more ways than one in that we heard on every hand from the audience that this evening's entertainment was better than that presented by the Winnipeg Ballet. This was as it should be because for the most part, timing, group and technical proficiency were well beyond the standards of the professional company.

As one member of the audience stated, these teachers know what they are doing and remember the pounding thumps of the Winnipeg company, which were absent Monday night.

As is the composer to music so is the choreographer to the art of ballet. Miss Lloyd's work, most of which was lost in the disastrous Winnipeg fire, is well known across Canada. Brian MacDonald, originally of the National Ballet of Canada has taught at the Banff school for four years also as a director and is making a name for himself in the world of ballet. According to Mrs. Farrally, Mr. MacDonald is considered one of the most talented of the young Canadian choreographers.

Mr. MacDonald's two programmed ballets "Souffle" and "Swan Song" are in the modern idiom. Although there are just so many dance steps available to the choreographer, Mr. MacDonald manages to give the illusion of something new.

"Souffle" is danced to music by Rieti which is refreshingly dissonant and the "Swan Song" to music from Greig, wondrously jazzed as arranged by Duke Ellington.

Mr. MacDonald is at present in New York teaching "Souffle" to the Ted Jeffrey Ballet Company prior to that company's going to Russia in the fall.

"Swan Song" true to the modern jazz trend was danced by guest artist Eva Von Gency, Richard Brown and members of the company. Miss Von Gency, a member of the original Winnipeg Ballet under Miss Lloyd and Mrs. Farrally, now lives in Montreal and teaches jazz techniques at the Festival School during the summer.

Modern ballet must be seen to be enjoyed. The movement is more angular and staccato in effect than the longer lines of the classical idiom.

Miss Lloyd's "Finishing School" is loved by all balletomanes in the west. The Festival company gave it a well paced and humorous reading. I liked particularly Bill Lark as the dancing master, Dittie Leigh as the new girl. Special mention must go to Jo Ann Jackson of Okanagan Falls as the little sister.

The company of 25 come from all parts of the continent some as far away as New York.

The costuming, lighting and decor were by the Banff School of Fine Arts production staff and were of suitable economy for travelling.

Judith Logan of Chicago and Douglas Voece of Saskatoon gave wonderful support at the pianos.

Miss Logan and Mr. Voece were particularly effective in Miss Lloyd's ballet "Lyrique". This lovely little ballet was created for a Toronto concert group six years ago. Danced to the music of Rachmaninoff the ballet has some wonderful climaxes which both the dancers and the pianists built up and sustained most dramatically.

Thank you Banff for the wonderful evening. The club has again upheld the high standard of entertainment as set for itself.

The company loved the Kelowna audience and say they want to come back again.

Dance At Aquatic Tonight At 9 p.m.

Tonight at the Aquatic ballroom a top rock and roll recording artist will perform at a dance from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Joey Costa, star of eastern Canada and the United States will entertain with his Lucerne, a band from Palsades Park, New Jersey.

Mr. Costa's appearance is sponsored by the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission, with Teen Town looking after arrangements concerning the dance.

Long Range Forecast: Weather On The Way

Ten minutes ago we entered the office out of brilliant sunshine. Five minutes ago we rushed out into the same sunshine to close the car windows because it was also raining hard. We quote this just to illustrate that if there is anything more unpredictable than a woman it is the weather. Especially this year.

Pay the poor weatherman. He may do his figuring and reach his conclusions and make a perfectly justifiable prediction, only to have it go as wrong as anything can go wrong.

He gets blamed for many things which are not his fault. His predictions for a given area may be generally true, but local influences can upset the applicability. This is particularly true in the Okanagan where local influences are important. The regional weather forecast may be right for the Valley, but that does not necessarily mean that it is right for any single segment of the Valley. The weather in Kelowna is not necessarily that in either Vernon or Penticton. Or, indeed, even in Rutland.

For two or three years now the U.S. Meteorological Service has issued a long-range forecast covering a period of thirty days. It indicates the probable temperature and the probable rainfall in areas across the continent during the forecast period. Watching it rather closely over a two-year period, we would be inclined to say that the forecast is generally pretty accurate, although, of course, it has slipped on occasion.

The reason why the Canadian Meteorological Division has not attempted a long-range forecast in the United States is that there are a great many things that influence weather patterns. These are set forth by the U.S. weather service as follows:

"These observations are obtained from land stations, ships at sea, aircraft, and from robot sounding balloons probing through the troposphere and into the stratosphere. While the number of observations runs into thousands, there are still many areas which are relatively uncovered and whose characteristics the meteorologist must estimate before attempting to predict. But even if the world were covered with a dense network of observation posts, meteorologists today would be unable to forecast in detail the weather for the next 30 days. The reason for this lies in the great complexity of the circulation of the atmosphere where weather events in each area affects those in other even remote areas in a way yet imperfectly understood.

"During the past decade, extensive research by meteorological organizations over the world has thrown some light on these complex interactions. The application of this research and the extension of this research to problems of 30-day forecasting and the extension of knowledge brought about by concentrated effort and experience over the past decade has enabled the Weather Bureau to make general 30-day predictions of temperature and precipitation which have shown some modest success. However, the methods used are not sufficiently developed to predict more than a few days ahead the detail of weather as it actually will be observed either in time or space."

Weather plays an important role in our lives and we cannot know too much about it. This is the reason the Canadian government is spending several millions of dollars to build a new weather ship for the Pacific Coast, from whence most of our weather in this province comes.

Ultimately there will be both a short range and a long-range weather service. It will come when the meteorologists have fathomed the reason why there is wide variation in weather, although there is no division of the area, other than those nature has made.

Perhaps when the new ship takes up her station we may obtain more accurate reports. If so, it will be all to the good but even so that will not stop us talking about the weather.

Electoral Reform

An item of parliamentary business which could directly affect the Okanagan Valley is the matter of electoral reform and the redistribution aspect of it specifically.

The Okanagan now elects two members in the Okanagan-Boundary and Okanagan-Revelstoke constituencies. The boundaries of neither are ideal. Boundary goes as far west as the summit of Manning Pass and east to and including Grand Forks. Revelstoke attaches that almost remote city to the North Okanagan and Vernon. Obviously each riding has elements of diverse interests and at the same time separates what might well be a constituency with generally common interests, the Okanagan Valley. It is more than probable that redistribution will see some changes in these two ridings.

It is reported that the Liberal government is approaching electoral reform (a) by establishing an independent redistribution commission to deal with the problem of constituency boundaries, (b) by establishing a permanent voters' list, and (c) by reducing the voters' age to 18.

On the first two proposals it should be able to command a good deal of support. The distribution of federal electoral districts has been unfair since the 1930s, even though the last redistribution took place a little over a decade ago. The fact is that the vast movement of people from rural to urban areas has never been recognized electorally in Canada, and the value of a city vote in relation to a vote in a rural constituency has seriously declined. If this matter is to be set right, the best and most obvious way of doing it is through an independent commission. Such a commission, indeed, has been long overdue.

Equally overdue is the move to establish a permanent voters' list. Over the past six years there have been no less than four general elections in Canada. Without a permanent voters' list, every voter has had to be enumerated for each election. A permanent staff to keep a continuous count could not possibly involve much more expense and would be much more likely to be accurate and fair to the voters.

Only on the proposal to lower the voting age are the Liberals on controversial ground. It might be well to keep this as a separate matter, in the interests of the more pressing reforms in the electoral process which are more likely to get general support.

FREDDY FAIRPLAY...

Anglican Seeks Sympathy For "Atheists and Others"

TORONTO (CP) — A leading British churchman told the Anglican World Congress Tuesday the atheistic founder of communism and the unbelieving father of psychoanalysis have strong claims to godliness.

Canon Max Warren, general secretary of the Church Missionary Society in England, said Christians can claim no monopoly on God because his righteousness works through other faiths and even a theistic science. He appealed for more sympathetic understanding among Anglicans for other ideologies and science.

He suggested to 1,000 Anglican churchmen at the first working session of their 11-day meeting that Christian concern for social righteousness "owes not a little, under God, to the stimulus of Karl Marx."

Christians conscious of the contribution of psychoanalysis to the healing of spirits "will humbly thank God for his grace at work in Sigmund Freud no less at work because Freud did not acknowledge him."

Canon Warren, launching discussion on how the church can best confront rival faiths and ideas, suggested that since religion is a quest for understanding of life then a medium that increases understanding serves religion. He described such contributions as "Godly Irreligion."

"The great role of science is to make men more religious because it is forever increasing our knowledge of the universe." The trouble with religion, he added, is that it is in danger of denying reality by building on mystery.

"Science has no brief to tell religion the meaning of life and love. Religion, for its part, has no right to tell science what is knowledge."

"But science and religion together may some day have something very important to say to technology—a word as to how things are done and what should not be done."

Canon Warren warned there is danger in the very theme of the current congress — the church's mission on the "frontiers" of religion, politics and culture—because it tends to divide life into religious and secular compartments when such divisions should not exist if the church is to survive.

An apparent failure to believe in Christianity often is just a refusal to accept the destruction of our own believing," he said. A major source of such distortions is the failure of the church to speak to modern man in his own language.

Referring to the fact that religious jargon sometimes creates "a God that is dead," Canon Warren commended as a "deeply sincere and profoundly courageous" attempt to find a fresh language a controversial book entitled Honest to God by Bishop John Robinson of Woolwich, England. Dr. Robinson, who suggests there is no personal God, was described earlier by the Archbishop of Canterbury as "confused."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Pinning Techniques Aid Bone Fractures

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please elaborate on hip nailing for fracture of the femoral neck.—A.S.

The femur is the thigh bone; the head of the femur is the rounded end which fits into the socket of the hip bone; the neck of the femur is the thinner section between the main part of the thigh bone and the rounded head.

Hence the neck of the femur, being smaller, is more likely to break. A great many "fractures of the hip" are instead fractures of this bone. So far as the patient is concerned, it might as well be one as the other. Both are bad, but not like they formerly were.

For instance, not many years ago a fracture of the hip or of the ilium or the femur was close to a death sentence in cases of elderly people. Then you had to keep the luckless ones absolutely still—all over. And lying motionless for so long was frequently fatal. Lack of exercise and movement allowed fluid to accumulate in the lungs and presently pneumonia tended to write final.

Now, however, with the hip-pinning technique, a corrosion-proof rod or splint or "pin" is attached with screws so that the two parts of the broken bone are held in position. (The same thing can be done with fractures elsewhere, of course.)

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Aug. 15, 1963

The Allies invaded France from the south 19 years ago today—in 1944 — attacking several beaches east of the mouth of the River Rhone. The troops landed from some 1,000 ships after a heavy preliminary bombardment and began pushing rapidly north to link with the Allied forces that had landed in Normandy in June. Within days French and United States units entered Paris.

1918 — The Republic of South Korea was proclaimed.

1907 — King Macbeth of Scotland was slain in battle.

The results of this technique have been spectacularly good. The patient can move without destroying the early stages of knitting of the bone. He sits up much sooner, is on his feet sooner.

All this sounds somewhat simpler than it really is, of course. It still takes quite a bit of time before the bone is strong enough to carry full weight. There is stiffness and soreness, and the patient often is afraid to put weight on the hip even after the doctor knows it is safe. Probably as people become more aware of the process, they will have more confidence and recover sooner.

The simple "walker," instead of crutches, has also been an immense boon to getting people back on their feet.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can show up in a urinalysis? Is cancer detected that way?—J.F.

Sugar, albumin, pus and blood are the principle things. The test does not directly diagnose cancer, but presence of blood indicates some problem which may or may not be malignant; pus, of course, indicates infection.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am sending 15 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." I am 77 and receive my medicine through the welfare agency. If there is medicine needed, please sign a prescription. I can get it filled. The drug store will be paid by the agency. — MRS. M. P.

You have the booklet by now, and know that there are various methods of combating ear noises that don't require medicine. But even more important, please don't ask me or any other doctor to write prescriptions sight unseen. Doctors first find the cause before prescribing medication. There are several causes of ear noises, and medications which would help one case might be bad for another.

NOTE TO J. O. M.: "Photosensitivity" means sensitivity to sun or, often, to other kinds of light. With some people, even a very small amount of light can irritate the skin.

OTTAWA REPORT

Flag And Anthem Of Own By 1965

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Canada will have a new distinctive national flag and a new official national anthem before April 8, 1965.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson says so.

One of the promises made by Mr. Pearson during the election campaign was that these two steps would be taken "within two years of a Liberal government assuming office." One of the decisions made by the new Liberal government during its first days of decision was evidently to implement this promise.

But during the final week of its recently adjourned session Parliament heard the prime minister report that no sub-committee of the cabinet, nor any inter-departmental committee, had been set up to prepare a proposed design for this flag.

Last year Hon. Jack Pickers, gill proposed that the Union Jack should be adopted by Canada as the flag of the Commonwealth and be flown to signify Canada's membership in the Commonwealth on all appropriate occasions. It would be flown beside a new Canadian flag, which would be adopted as an "official" and "distinctive" national flag.

ENSIGN SUPPORTED

Canada is roughly in three moods towards this flag question. Those of so-called "ensign" origin, namely those of neither British nor French ancestry, mostly would like to see a new flag bearing no indication of our past history and associations. French-Canadians would like to see a French emblem given equality, or even pride of place, on a Canadian flag, but recognizing the unlikelihood of that aim, they would prefer a mixed flag rather than one in which any British symbol predominated. British-Canadians, like the Canadian Legion, are happy with the Canadian Red Ensign, but the younger generation is apt to confuse heraldry with prison bars, and incorrectly assume that critics of the Red Ensign are correct when they say that this flag signifies our present subordination to Britain.

This of course is balderdash. Our flag records our past history. If we abandon the Red Ensign, we should logically also cease teaching Canadian history in our schools. South Africa, smaller and less important than Canada, is now neither a monarchy nor a republic. As Queen of South Africa and even a member of the Commonwealth, yet it retains, on its very distinctive national flag, the Union Jack as representing a significant and irradicable part of its feudal history.

LEGION CHOICE

This recognition that heraldry and history should play a part in the design of a national flag rejects the wholly "ensign" "Major League" flag, especially since the design is not distinctive to Canada. Preference from this point of view is the design because of its horizontal blue and white bars representing the provinces, with the Union Jack in the upper left quadrant, and a white fleur-de-lis representing France, superimposed on that irrelevant maple leaf in the fly.

John Matheson, the young veteran and lawyer who represents a United Empire Loyalist constituency in Ontario in the House of Commons, has shouldered the task of preliminary research on the flag question for the Liberal government. He has dug up some interesting legends, and argues that the one distinctive Canadian design in heraldry today is our coat of arms. This appears in the fly of the Red Ensign. Its upper half is quartered, to show the Lions of England, the Lion of Scotland, the French-Lions of France, and the Harp of Ireland. Its lower half shows a group of three maple leaves combined, thus, asserts John Matheson with sound reason, is the one heraldic symbol distinctive to Canada. This, he argues, should therefore be our flag.

The Ontario crest contains the same emblem, but this could be destructively deified as looking like a sprig of poison ivy on a yellow field. In the Canadian coat of arms, the colors are different: red maple leaves on a field of silver (white). If you want to bet, you might make money by backing this as the ultimate choice of the Liberal government. But then listen for the howls of disapproval.

Foreign Legion In New Role

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle has decided not to disband the French Foreign Legion, even if its new assignment does entail such unromantic tasks as house-building.

The legendary heroes of last-ditch stands at desert outposts no longer keep watch over the French empire, because the empire has ceased to exist. Algeria and other countries, where the Legion has fought since its birth 131 years ago, now are independent.

De Gaulle has decided to reduce the size of the Legion from 15,000 men to 9,000. Of these, about 3,000 will form a "legion of builders," a sort of huge public works enterprise at the disposal of African countries in need of technical assistance.

Another 3,500 men, all trained paratroopers, will form a battle corps. This will be completely integrated into the French Army.

At present, there are still five regiments in Algeria, one in Madagascar and a seventh at Djibouti, French Somaliland.

Men from many countries who are "trying to forget their past" still volunteer for the Legion, in spite of a large decline in the total number. Average recruitment now is 100 men a month, compared with 700 in 1959.

ANN LANDERS

Husband Tries To Brain Wash Wife

Dear Ann Landers: Should a married man with two children be allowed to date? When I say "date" I mean purely social—drinks, dinner and nothing more.

My husband insists that this is acceptable behavior in our society and that everyone except hypocrites, prudes and squares does it openly. He also insists that those who don't do it openly are probably doing it secretly.

My husband says he believes in being completely honest with me and he hopes I won't force him to turn into a sneak. He also says a man appreciates his wife more after he has been out with other women.

This all sounds reasonable to me when he is saying it, but when I am alone and start thinking about it, it doesn't seem to add up.

I should tell you that I was born in Europe where the idea of some family are quite different than in this country. Please advise me—MRS. B.

Dear Mrs. B. You sound as if you've just had your brain washed and can't do a thing with it. If you want to go along with this design for living, it's nobody's business but your own. But please don't buy the idea that everybody does it and it's perfectly all right.

The married man who can't give up dating is like the 55-year-old matron who still wears her sorority pin.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I an unnatural grandmother? If you say yes then there are a lot of us because many of our friends feel the same way.

My married children think it is my responsibility to sit with their youngsters whenever they have something to do. I have no objection to helping out in a pinch, but it seems as if I am getting pinched four and five times a week.

We have two daughters and a son. I am worn to a frazzle running between their homes to care for their children. All the girls play golf, bridge, do club work and hang that their families don't let them down. Of course they don't. But they tie me down plenty.

In there a way to say no without giving the impression I am letting the girls down? My nerves aren't what they used to be and I just can't take raising another set of youngsters—EXHAUSTED.

Dear Ex: The Lord knew what He was doing when He gave the young to the young. Some grandmothers love to sit—report! Maybe the girl figures her company is sufficient payment for the evening. I think you ought to date her just as long as you're lucky enough to get her to go out with you. She sounds plenty A. O.K.

Confidential to ALL TOWN UP: Get off your knees, Girl. It's bad for your spine and worse for your self-respect. This is no way to get a boy friend back.

Route Choice Splits BCTA

The president of the British Columbia Tourist Association says the group is split over relative merits of the Howe Pass and Yellowhead Pass highways linking B.C. and Alberta.

Edwood C. Rice of Vernon says he and most businessmen in the Okanagan Valley want the Howe Pass route. But both are essential and both will be built, he said.

Mr. Rice was interviewed after announcing a tour of the Okanagan Sept. 5 for Central Alberta Chamber of Commerce officials.

Members of the B.C. association from the Kootenay and Kamloops areas favor the Yellowhead, touted as part of a second Trans-Canada Highway that would pass through Prince George and Edmonton.

The Howe Pass highway would be 125 miles shorter, running from Red Deer through Rocky Mountain House, Alta., Saskatchewan River Crossing, Donald, B.C. and Golden B.C. Alberta already has finished its section of the proposed Howe Pass route and the cost of finishing the entire highway would be only $4,000,000, Mr. Rice said. The Yellowhead construction would cost $80,000,000.

Canada's forests cover more than 45 per cent of the total land area and forest industries support one out of every 10 Canadians.

Golf Championships Get Pitiless Shakedown Today

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Wednesday by young Brian Wilcox of Toronto in a stunning finish by both players.

The pair three 18th hole decided the match. Draper winning it with a shabby four against a five by Wilcox.

The upset phase of the opening round came about through the complete collapse of John Boyce of Calgary. It was an unexpected disaster that was gratefully accepted by hockey player Nick Markkanen of Winnipeg, who played to a seven and six win without losing a hole.

This tough chore of upstaging Draper, 1961 runner-up for the title, was almost accomplished.

Willows Edge Rovers 3-2

The Willow has Willows repeated their second win in the season. "B" team's official round robin series Wednesday night by downing the Rovers 3-2 in a close game at King's Stadium.

Wally Baka of the Willows was credited with the win while Arnie Roth was charged with the Rovers loss.

Wayne North and Reg Marshall were tops for the Willows at the plate. North with a homer and a single and Marshall with two singles.

Mickey Kroschinsky was the best for the Rovers with two hits for five times at the plate. He scored the winning run for the Willows with a home run in the seventh inning.

Dodgers Pennant Hopes Reduced To A Toe Hold

If Los Angeles Dodgers are leading on the pennant race, now that their stranglehold on the National League pennant race has been reduced to a toe hold, they can blame Hank Aaron.

The Milwaukee Braves slugger belted a grand slam home run Wednesday night that gave Milwaukee a 3-3 victory over Los Angeles and trimmed Dodgers' lead to three games over San Francisco Giants.

Aaron, the first in the major league to bat in 100 runs, hit his 32nd home run off Don Drysdale to cap a five-run seventh-inning explosion that sent Dodgers reeling to their third consecutive loss and fifth in six games.

Trans-Atlantic Fares Cut By Airline

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The Scandinavian Airlines system announced Thursday it will start cut-rate transatlantic flights this fall with fares about 25 per cent under the current price for economy class jet passengers. It will use American Douglas DC-7C propeller-driven aircraft. Flights will leave four times weekly in each direction between New York and Scandinavian airports starting Oct. 17.

Former Film Star Benefits By Will

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Pogo Negri, star of silent films, will receive $1,250 a month from a friend's estate. She was named chief beneficiary in the will of Mrs. Margaret West, filed for probate here. Miss Negri, 64, also gets the use of Mrs. West's home and ownership of all furnishings and art objects in the house. Mrs. West died July 29 at the age of 59.

Reindeer were first introduced into North America in the 1880s when Alaska's caribou were virtually depleted.

HONESTY PAYS OFF FOR NINE-YEAR-OLD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Owner Walter O'Malley of Los Angeles Dodgers is a man who can spare a dime.

Ralph Haffley, 9, of Richmond, Minn., found this out when he visited here recently with his older brother Nick.

Nick took Ralph to a National league game at Dodger Stadium, where Ralph found a dime in the parking lot. He sent the dime to O'Malley with a letter explaining that he felt it rightfully belonged to the Dodgers.

O'Malley returned the dime the other day, pasted on the bottom of an autographed picture of the Dodger team.

With it was a note: "Dear Ralph: Finders Keepers. It's your dime. Walter O'Malley."

This moved the Dodgers into second place in Ralph's affections. Dime or no dime, his favorite team is Minnesota Twins.

WEDNESDAY'S BASEBALL STARS

VISITING SAILORS PREPARE TO CAST OFF

Mrs. and Mrs. John Davis and their two and a half-year-old daughter Joanne of Calgary, Alberta, gathered for their photograph on their 30-foot "Reindeer" class sailing boat at the Kelowna Yacht Club before casting off. The Davis spent two weeks sailing on the Okanagan Lake and bring on board their boat. "We enjoyed our stay in Kelowna very much and hope to be back again," but were sorry we couldn't stay long enough to take part in the Kelowna sailing Regatta, said Mrs. Davis. (Courier Photo)

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Planetary positions now pre-later half of September, the seat both good and bad aspects last week of October, early November and next February. During those periods many people engaged in creative enterprises and find inspiration at a high peak. Now, however, a fine balance will be maintained. Personal relationships will be under generous influences throughout most of the year, promising happiness in social, domestic and sentimental of which you can accomplish a great deal in the year ahead. Where you and monetary affairs are concerned — especially opportunities to travel are indicated within the next two weeks, also in January, June and July. Creative workers, gance, and speculation during the next 12 months — particularly in mid-October, early November, the latter half of December, and next April. It will be important, too, not to antagonize those in a position to aid you.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 2NT Pass
3♣ Pass 4♣ Pass

Opening lead — five of the clubs.

The Blackwood convention, properly used, is extremely valuable in bidding or avoiding slam contracts. It is of tremendous help in those hands where the number of aces held by the partnership is the key to how many tricks can be made.

Let's say you're South in this hand, taken from a tournament, and your partner opens the bidding with a club. The question of whether there is a slam in the hand rests largely on the number of aces partner has.

Without Blackwood, or a similar convention, you would be up a tree. North could have, say, an 18-point hand containing one ace or he could have only a 13-point hand containing three aces. In the latter case, you could make a grand slam, while in the former case the best you could make is seven tricks.

By using Blackwood directly over one ace, you learn easily where you stand in the actual hand. Partner responds five hearts, showing two aces, and you therefore raise the bidding with six spades, knowing the opponents have one ace.

That's the way the bidding went at most tables where the sound contract of six spades was reached. However, at one table where the bidding proceeded this way, North decided to go all out for a top score and converted six spades to six (trumps), while South passed.

East led the ace of diamonds and continued with the three when West signaled with the seven. As a result of this line of defense, North went down three tricks — 300 points.

It was only after the play was over that North-South realized that East had led the ace of diamonds out of turn and that South should have been the declarer instead of North. South had bid no-trump first and West should have made the opening lead.

If South had realized that East had led out of turn originally, he would have, as declared, bid no-trump. In that case, he would have made seven no-trump.
